LOCALITIES.

SONG OF THE TRAIN ROBBERS.

BY GEORGE CHASE.

A jolly set of boys we train robbers are: We live upon the west, we earn coarse prison fare.

We spend our money freely till it is all quite run out. Then pull up another train without the slightest doubt.

After we take a train we go right into town, upon a soft spring mattress lay us gently down. We hear about the officers and how they ran all night. Without a single train robber being in their sight.

We have heard about the Governor of the Lone Star state, And the reward he offered in hope to seal our fate.

It is best we keep quiet, and therefore write this letter. We will see your Hon. Governor, and go you 500 better.

We have gone into the business, and we intend to stay. The work is very easy; we are delighted with the pay.

We are not exposed to danger, as they are in many trades. The work is just as easy as a soldier's dress parade.

We have read the Austin dispatch dated the sixth. Which intimates quite plainly you will put us in a fix.

It is just the same dispatch we have read two times before. What are you going to do about it? We would very much like to know.

No; there isn't any news from the train robbers.

The First Presbyterian church holds its Sunday school picnic at the pavilion to-day. The little folks will go out on the cars.

The pleasant shower of yesterday made street sprinkling unnecessary, but an old gentleman driving one of the sprinklers seemed to ignore the rain and kept right on with his work.

In reporting the price at which the Baptist church property was offered to the city yesterday THE GAZETTE was made to say $12,000 instead of $8,000. The price proposed was only $8,000.

There is a slight difference between the gentry who hold up and rob trains and the sort who plunder freight cars by stealth, yet the shrewd Fort Worth gamins, who peddle papers, made the capture of two men suspected of the latter sort of work, an excuse for shrill yells announcing the arrest of the train robbers.

The party that went to look for the corpse of young Hambricht, who was drowned in the West Fork on Captain Reed's ranch Tuesday, returned yesterday and reported that, owing to the high stage of the water in that stream, it was useless to attempt the search until the river went down. At the soonest practicable moment the search will begin.

Hymenaeal.

The County Clerk issued marriage permits yesterday to Henry D. Yancey and Miss Jennie D. Nash, a Grapevine couple, and to Richard Francis and Katie Howard of Fort Worth.

Picnic.

The members of the First Presbyterian Sabbath school will picnic at the pavilion to-day, June 9. All friends of the church and school are cordially invited to attend. Meet at the church, corner Fourth and Calhoun streets, at 9 a. m. Please bring your baskets to the church.

S. M. Fry, Superintendent.

Outrageous.

Yesterday afternoon Officer Davenport arrested a negro girl named Mattie Smith, about fifteen years old, for an unprovoked assault on the little three-year-old son of Mrs. Dickey, a resident of Grove street. The brutal negro tore the child's clothing off and was beating it severely when made to cease by a colored woman, who identified her for the officer. She was put in the lock-up, and should be taught a lesson that will last for life.

More Convictions.

Law-breakers are having a hard time of it at the present term of the District court, and they are doubtless beginning to realize the full force of the adage concerning the way of the transgressor. Bob Copeland, colored, fought the case against him, but was found guilty of an assault with intent to murder, and was sent up for three years. Alonzo Johnson, white, also fought his case, but was found guilty of too free use of horseflesh not his property, and the jury said he might live in retirement for five years.

County Attorney Carlock presses state cases with all the vigor of a veteran and, under the able charges of the court, the juries have shown a disposition to mete out justice to all offenders.

Protestant Missionaries Exiled to Siberia.

London Daily News.

The latest news from Russia states that three Armenian Protestant missionaries residing in Tiflis have been exiled to Siberia and that a very painful sensation has been created in consequence.

The fate of one of them is especially deplorable. He was a great philologist, and has translated the English Bible into two eastern languages. His popularity was very great among the first families of Tiflis, and he was often seen at the court of the Governor, the Grand Duke Michael.

He is sixty years old, and has many followers and pupils.

Just before Easter all three missionaries were arrested, thrown into prison

like common criminals, and sent to Orenburg on their way to Siberia. The pretext for their arrest is that they displayed undue activity in making converts to their faith, but the accusation is said to be altogether false.

Ice Cream Festival.

Under the management of the Woman's

Christian Temperance Union, on Houston

street, between Third and Fourth streets, this Thursday evening, the public are cordially invited.

The Texas pawnbroker has removed to 309 Houston street. Big reductions in prices for bargain hunters.

"WELL DONE."

The Closing Exercises of Warren Institute Listened to by a Large and Cultured Audience.

A Literary Exhibition Particularly Pleasing in All Its Features and Gratifying to Parents, Preceptors and Pupils.

The exceedingly interesting and carefully prepared entertainment given by the students of Warren Institute last night formed a fitting finale of a year of more than ordinarily successful school work. The manner in which the opera house was crowded showed how deeply interested the grown up people of Fort Worth are in the mental advancement of the youth of the city. As in several previous school entertainments all the seats, both on the lower floor and balcony were taken, and down stairs many were forced to stand.

The exercises were opened with a pretty class song from "Flower Queen," following which Miss Birdie Chase delivered a captivating address of welcome in a manner to completely win her audience.

The instrumental duet by Misses May Tully and Caddie Allen was skillfully executed.

Miss Myra Martin's clever rendition of the "Song of the Shirt," evinced her true conception of the piece.

"Chickery Chick," a spirited song was happily rendered by a group of little girls. Master Harry Adams and Miss Ella Hogsett won great applause in telling how "Most Fellows Know."

"Coming Thro' the Clover" was sung with exceeding sweetness by Misses Sue Higbee and Clara Whitla.

Miss Helen Daggett, to whom was awarded the prize for proficiency in music by the painstaking and accomplished teacher, Mrs. Kathleen Handie, in an instrumental solo, "Music on the Waters," won deserved approbation. En passant it may be said that no little part of the pleasure of the evening was due to Mrs. Randle's presence at the piano. The praise won by her pupils' playing was a high tribute to the lady's efficient instruction.

Miss Florence Smith recited "Keeping His Word," and did it finely.

The lullaby song by four little misses, Mary Whitta, Anna Garner, Roberta Miller and May Tully, was one of the most taking things of the occasion.

"Good bye by Married Women," as said by little Misses Nathalie Hoelzle and Effie Ellis, received a prolonged encore, and so enthusiastic were the plaudits that the winners seemed had to go away again.

"May Belle are Ringing," an instrumental rendition by Miss Maud Richardson was very pleasing.

Miss Estelle Kaiser showed decided talent in "The Blacksmith's Story." Her enunciation was good, and her gestures peculiarly graceful.

"Fra Diavolo" was rendered with great spirit and correctness by Miss Edith Turner.

The song Zingara, full of melody and with a touch of quaintness and originality, sung by a class of girls, evoked much praise.

Transcription of "White Wings," an instrumental solo by Miss Tommie Adams, would have done credit to a much older performer.

"The Gambler's Wife," a recitation by Miss Maude Watkins, combining good elocution and dramatic force, made a decided impression on the audience.

A vocal solo, "The Daisy," by Miss Fannie Field, was listened to with much pleasure.

Miss Annie Hogsett certainly made a hit by the clever recitation of "The Jiners." It could not have been said better.

"Come Where the Lilies Bloom," as sung by Misses Beall, Melton, Corley and Quigg, met with due appreciation.

To Miss Birdie Higbee fell the highest honor—the vaudeville address, which both in subject matter and beautiful delivery fully evidenced the justice of the award.

"I'm Dying for Some One to Love Me," by Miss Mary Whitta, Harry Adams and Royal Twombly, was amusing and well sung.

The calisthenic exercises with wands and dumb-bells were executed with graceful uniformity and showed skilled training.

THE PRIZE WINNERS.

The awarding of medals was an interesting part of the entertainment. These were presented by Rev. J. Morgan Wells in his usual happy style. First, Miss Birdie Higbee, the recipient of the first honor.

In the next grade it was impossible to make any distinction, Misses Clara Whitta, Anna Hogsett and Maud Richardson were evenly matched were they in scholarship honors, and hence, a prize was given each.

In the next grade Miss Kathie Trippett was the prize winner.

In exposition work, Misses Fannie Field and Monterey Johnson were equally meritorious and equally honored.

The primary department also contained three of equal right to the laurel wreath, and so Miss May Tully, Miss Nathalie Hoelzle and Master Harry Adams divided it between them.

Miss Helen Daggett took the prize for proficiency in music.

The entertainment then closed with a song, and the great crowd dispersed, happy in the contemplation of so much genuine happiness on the part of the young people. Their accomplished teacher, Mrs. Warren, and her corps of assistants might well feel proud of their work, for listening to the expressions of the throng in passing out one could hear on all sides the just and welcome verdict: "Well done."

MISSOURI CYCLONE.

Considerable Damage Done in the Vicinity of Marshall.

St. Louis, Mo., June 8.—A dispatch from Marshall, Mo., says a cyclone visited that county yesterday evening, doing much damage. The storm came from the southwest, doing severe damage to the village of Little Rock, which lies upon the river bank. Here it demolished Henry Oberdike's residence, the family escaping injury by taking refuge in the cellar. His barn was destroyed and horses killed. The five story residence of R. B. Davidson was unroofed and wrecked. Jesse Hendrick's frame residence was annihilated. The storm was fifty yards wide and ironed out a desolate path. Its force was spent in the above neighborhood.

AN ITEM OF INTEREST

FROM

RANDALL & CHAMBERS CO.

During the present week it is our purpose to offer our patrons some of the most attractive bargains of the season. To enumerate every article that we design laying before the public at a ridiculously low price would require more than double the space that is at our command, hence, only a few special items are mentioned, simply an index, as it were, to the volume of choice offerings which will be found open, and of which all are invited to partake during the next ten days.

HOUSTON ENCAMPMENT.

Preparations Making to Entertain a Large Number of Visitors. Special to the Gazette.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 8.—Up to the present time nineteen of the twenty-two companies which have entered the Houston encampment have forwarded rosters of their teams. It is thought that between twenty-five and thirty companies will participate, and the most extensive preparations are being made to entertain all the visitors. A new feature proposed for the encampment week is a reunion of printers from the various typographical unions of the state. The local union has taken the matter in hand and will send out invitations to members of the craft in different parts of the state.

FOREIGN TRADE REVIEW.

Effect of the Great Corner on Cotton—Trade Stagnant.

MANCHESTER, June 8.—The Guardian in its commercial article says the effect of the latest rise in cotton at Liverpool will undoubtedly be to cause a curtailment in the consumption of cotton. The opinion is held that a further advance in cotton will be absolutely beneficial as it will hasten the closing of mills and the adoption of a short time movement. There are no signs of improvement in business or even in the current demand at the lowest prices. A moderate business has been done in export, but the sales have not reached the full amount. Some orders have been booked for Japan at better prices than were obtained a week ago, and there have also been a few transactions for China, India and the Continent. Home business has been poor. Cloth is quiet. A few orders have been placed for moderate quantities of India and China staples at a trifle over the rates obtainable last week. Manufacturers are discontented with the current prices. Quotations are largely beyond the reach of buyers. Best prints are firm, but there is little fresh business, prices being upheld chiefly by unexecuted orders.

Dr. McCoy, 515 Main, cures piles, discharges, fistulas, etc., without knife, ligature or detention from business.
